Property Description

Located within the prestigious Peninsula Papagayo, Costa Rica's most exclusive resort-residential enclave, this distinguished coastal estate presents a refined and commanding architectural statement. Completed in 2014 by acclaimed architects Robert Barnes and Christopher Coy, the residence reflects a disciplined approach to proportion, permanence, and harmony with its natural surroundings. Set on a generous 3,580-square-meter homesite, the property offers approximately 6,900 square feet of interior living space thoughtfully arranged across a main residence, a private guest casita, and a separate garage structure. The primary residence features three bedrooms and three-and-a-half bathrooms, while the independent casita offers three additional bedrooms and three full bathrooms, ensuring privacy and comfort for family and guests alike. Dedicated staff quarters include one bedroom and one bathroom, complemented by a powder room serving the main living areas.
